UMass Chan "Re-Orientation!"

REGISTER

Sept 16 | 9:00-11:30am

This September we are opening up our traditional New Faculty Orientation to all faculty who want to hear from leadership and connect with faculty resources.

This event is a wonderful opportunity to refresh your knowledge of the institution, be re-invigorated as you hear about new initiatives and the accomplishments of your peer faculty, and re-orient yourself to the promotions process and DEI resources available to you.

Managing Power and Privilege in the Classroom: A Model for Considering Stuck Moments

REGISTER

Sept 24 | 12:00-1:00pm

Presenter: Hannah Karpman

This (virtual) session will present a framework for analyzing challenging moments in the classroom, and to understand the system, group and individual level dynamics at play. Faculty will brainstorm how to manage challenges and advance equity and justice in their teaching.

The Anatomy (and Physiology) of a Specific Aims Page

REGISTER

Jan 28 | 12:00-1:00pm

Presenter: Dr. Justine Pinsky

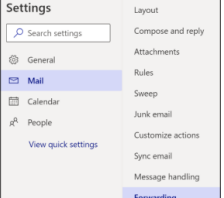

Many grants require a specific aims page, letter of intent, or equivalent that summarizes the goals and activities of your proposed research. The aims page is like the salesperson you send out to meet your potential customers. Make a good first impression, and they'll be eager to hear more. Make a bad first impression, and your funders will quickly move on to the next application. In this virtual session we will answer commonly asked questions. What components should be included? What should be left out? How should the information be organized? And, perhaps most importantly, how can you engineer your aims page to influence your readers?

We want to communicate with you!
